

9 December 2014

To whom it may concern.

We confirm that we have funded a project implemented by Calabash Trust in the Nelson Mandela Bay Municipal area.

The project was a community oriented initiative whose objectives were to evaluate the communities resources and then harness and develop these to deliver vegetable produce for commercial purposes and to supplement feeding.

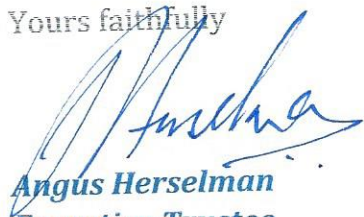

The project had approximately 436 beneficiaries and an approximate cost of R274 875,00. We have found Calabash to be professional, reliable, committed to their work and to have a community orientated strategy which advocates developing the broader community in order to ensure sustainability.

Carla Collins was the project coordinator of the project and has always responded professionally and positively to us as funders, and has furthermore made valuable inputs through illustrating a different and more macro developmental model to our own, thereby forcing us to continually review our modus operandi to ensure that our other CS Investment initiatives are implemented successfully.

The project has now been completed and we have withdrawn, satisfied that project objectives have by and large been achieved and that the elements for a sustainable initiative are in place.

We also regret that we have been unable to fund any further projects with Calabash in the short term due to budgetary constraints but would, in the event that more funding becomes available, consider working together with Calabash on other initiatives.

Yours faithfully

Angus Herselman
Executive Trustee

African Bank Development Trust

Tel: +27(0)329470716

Cel: +27(0)824975152